Microvision announces the acquisition of Rotterdam-based NDI-Pod for US$800,000. "MicroVision, a pioneer in the development of chip-based hyperspectral cameras, has acquired NDI-Pod, a Dutch company that specializes in the hyperspectral acquisition and classification of agricultural and forestry products using direct detection," says a release. "The acquisition allows MicroVision to enter the European market and broaden its product offering to include a line of high-resolution spectral cameras, along with a suite of accompanying software." Since the acquisition, MicroVision plans to relaunch the NDI-Pod product suite under the new MicroVision brand. "MicroVision will continue operating NDI-Pod as a separate company and will ensure support and maintenance of the product portfolio including NDI-Pod Series Spectral Cameras, Alux Pro Series Spectral Cameras and Iridium Spectral Cameras," says the release. "NDI-Pod has two offices in the Netherlands and one office in the UK. This will be NDI-Pod
